

ShadowDOM

Renders markup separately from the main document's DOM.

This allows us to style markup privately, without worrying about collision with other parts of the document.

Shadow DOM

Renders markup separately from the main document's DOM.

This allows us to style markup privately, without worrying about collision with other parts of the document.

What does it all mean?